

Future scientists of Harrison

Photos by
Tom Nycz

DRY ICE AND BUBBLING POTIONS

“Mad Science of Westchester” recently visited the Harrison Public Library on Bruce Avenue. The workshops, for students in kindergarten through the sixth-grade, were sponsored by the Friends of the Library. Children had the opportunity to turn water into ice in 30 seconds, build a giant bubbling potion and create some awesome smoked illusions like those used in movies.

Nancy Bonafilia pours dry ice into a bucket of water, covering the floor in carbon dioxide.